Pre-screening template introduction

A key publicly stated objective of the Health Research Regulations and the Amendments is to strengthen governance in organisations that facilitate or carry out health research involving the processing of personal data.

In an organisation that provides healthcare services to patients, effective governance recognises the inter-dependencies between corporate and clinical governance across services and integrates them.

The amendment on pre-screening which is designed to facilitate health research is necessarily built around that governance principle because it facilitates a purpose specific and controlled exception to the general rule on third party access to personal data by an "authorised person" (who is not an employee of the data controller).

It means that a data controller (most likely a hospital but any healthcare provider) that envisages the use of the amendment must put formal and documented governance arrangements in place regulating the appointment and data processing activities of an "authorised person" and the relationship between the data controller and the employer of the "authorised person".

Those formal governance arrangements also involve appropriate transparency arrangements.

THIS AGREEMENT is dated and effective thisand made between:

- (2) [Organisation/Legal Person] (Hereinafter "acronym") having its principal place of business at [...]
